

Brewer Normal School, Greenwood, S. C.

Rev. James M. Robinson, Principal

FOUNDED in 1872 by the American Missionary Association, and located in the center of a large Negro population.

GIRLS' DORMITORY AND SCHOOL BUILDING

Established as a girls' boarding school, Brewer has become a co-educational institution. In 1908, the enrollment was 10 teachers and 362 students. The property is valued at $18,000.

The annual expenses of Brewer Normal School are $4,700. The school is supported by the American Missionary Association.

tion. Rev. James M. Robinson has been principal of Brewer since 1893. Rev. H. Paul Douglass, D.D., superintendent of education of the American Missionary Association, says:

A Teacher's Influence

"During the sixteen years of Principal J. M. Robinson's administration it has steadily strengthened its hold on the life of the community; has put the indelible stamp of an intensive Christian culture on the lives of hundreds of young people, who have lived in its dormitories; has touched less profoundly but genuinely thousands of others in the day-school. A wide circle of homes is permanently better for these sixteen years of service, and a group of graduates has gone forth to higher institutions to become teachers and leaders of the Negro race."

Boys' Dormitories, the Old Slave Cabins

The main building and the girls' dormitory are the principal buildings of the school. The dormitories for boys are in two old slave cabins which are used in the daytime for the primary grade. These cabins have been used practically from the beginning of the school. The school is trying to raise a "Boys' Dormitory Fund" by asking contributions of ten cents or more from friends. More than $1,000 has already been secured.
